TESTIMONIAL

“Due to the isolated situation of residential therapy, C-V Ranch students have limited opportunities to participate in the community. Arts access opportunities through the Art Association help to bridge this gap. For these youth, realization of inclusion is powerful, and the arts offer an attainable avenue for this. Through workshops and exposure to artistic role models, our students have engaged proactively with community and learned a variety of skills. The arts provide these youth with motivational opportunities and enhance their lives through personal initiative, pride in accomplishment, and improved self-worth.”
